Which? response as Qualcomm abandons attempt to avoid facing UK consumers

Anabel Hault, Which? Chief Executive, said:

"This is good news for nearly 30 million UK consumers who have moved a step closer to seeing Qualcomm held to account after its failed attempt to oust the UK courts from hearing this case.

"Without Which? bringing this claim it would simply not be realistic for affected customers to seek damages from the company on an individual basis – that's why it's so vital that UK consumers can come together and claim the redress they are entitled to as a group."
